How does Electronic Collections Online relate to FirstSearch?

Applies to

- FirstSearch

Answer

Access to Electronic Collections Online journals is provided through the Electronic Collections Online database that is fully integrated in FirstSearch. The database includes browsing of journals by subject, publisher collection, and tables of contents. Also, you can add links in your Web pages or online catalog that take your users directly to specific journals within the database.

In addition, the journals are sources of full text for other FirstSearch databases. If you subscribe to Electronic Collections Online journals, your users have direct access to the full text in those journals from abstract and index databases throughout FirstSearch.
