How do I know whether my holdings are being displayed?

Answer

The simplest method is to perform a keyword search for an item for which your library has added a holding in WorldCat. Locate the item in WorldCat.org search results and click to the item record. If your library meets the participation requirements, it should appear in the resulting list of libraries. If it does not appear, first determine whether you have enabled deep links to your online catalog records using your institutional profile in the WorldCat Registry. (OPAC base URL is entered in the WorldCat Registry > Online Catalog section of the profile.)

Once enabled, it takes 24 hours before your holdings appear in WorldCat.org results. If you still do not see your library in results after meeting the participation requirements and setting up deep links, or need help with the process, contact OCLC Support.
