New features and enhancements

Utilize new Lender Automation Indicator field for interlibrary loan analysis (Tipasa)

Following the August 2022 release of Tipasa features, your institution may now utilize lending automation to consistently and predictably process lending requests according to your stated policies. Associated with that release is the availability of a new object in the Interlibrary Loan universe:

- Lender Automation Indicator: Value ("Y" or "N") indicating if the interlibrary loan request was acted on by a lender's automation policy.

Note: All historical data will default to "N" for this new field. Population of data utilizing this feature will commence with the monthly interlibrary loan data load in early September 2022.
